Create a Project Compassion space in your classroom. Make a paper chain with all the names of your classmates and all your Project Compassion friends linked together. Add a globe of the world and a Project Compassion box. As you read the stories make and add the flags of the countries that they come from. You might like to collect extra information about the countries as well.

Your class may have a set of atlases. Or you could borrow some. See if you can find the different Project Compassion countries.

Atlases are such fun. You can learn so much about your world.

Answers for teachers: Farid and his family borrowed money from Caritas. They spent the money on fish and fish food. They had fish to eat, fish to share and fish to sell. They paid the money back to Caritas.
